If you have students currently thinking about higher education then our “To Go Or Not To Go” booklet provides a comprehensive overview and is accessible to everyone here.

CPD Conference

We’ve already had a fantastic response for our first online conference encouraging more young people to consider higher education opportunities!

If you haven’t signed up yet then there’s still time – click here.

HHere for all: everything you need to know about Gatsby Benchmarks and pathways into higher education

Thursday 2nd July, via Zoom, from 9.30am

Featuring a keynote address from Janet Colledge, the ‘Careers Defender’, the event will:

- highlight the importance of the Gatsby Benchmarks linked to social mobility
- share experiences of careers education and guidance in the current climate
- promote additional support available for underrepresented/vulnerable groups in our region to help their transition to higher education
- share good practice on key topics, including care experienced young people progressing to higher education

Core Offer 2020/21 – Booklet and Launch

Hepp are currently finalising our updated Core Offer for 2020/21, clarifying next year’s offer to schools and how it will work.

We’re planning to launch the new Core Offer booklet with a virtual event (presentation and Q&A) explaining the key changes, as well as ways we can address issues caused by the ongoing coronavirus situation and social distancing.

The same event will run on two different days, so you can attend whichever is most convenient. More details coming soon via email - watch your inboxes!

Tuesday 14th July (10-11am) OR Thursday 16th July (2-3pm)
Resources from our Partners

There are so many online resources already available for teachers and students, with more appearing all the time! It can be confusing and time-consuming to investigate them all, so let us signpost you to the excellent resources and support provided by our partners:

- Here to Help (HeppSY)
- Uni4U@home (Sheffield Hallam University)
- Virtual Schools Hub (The University of Sheffield)
- UNIfied

Visit our website for our most up-to-date information on Covid-19 and school delivery.

Get in touch!

As ever, we welcome any feedback and can always be contacted at hepp@shu.ac.uk or via your Regional Activities Coordinators.
