Hepp collect different types of personal data for the different programmes we deliver to schools, this privacy notice is for activities delivered as part of Hepp’s Multiple Intervention Programme, consisting of presentations, workshops, and campus visits.

Higher education activities and the Higher Education Progression Partnership (Hepp)

Higher education outreach activities are aimed at showing students the opportunities available at higher education and the benefits of progressing to higher education and gaining higher level skills. The activities may also work to support student academic confidence and attainment.

The Higher Education Progression Partnership (Hepp) aims to increase the number and proportion of young people progressing to university and higher education from underrepresented groups. The Hepp team are a collection of practitioners who deliver impartial information advice and guidance related to university progression. You may have the opportunity to take part in activities such as university campus visits, workshops, and other higher education opportunities. Hepp are jointly funded by Sheffield Hallam University and The University of Sheffield to undertake such outreach activities with young people at your school or college to let them know about the benefits of going into higher education. More information about Hepp and its partners can be accessed through the links below:

Why do we need to collect personal data and evaluate higher education activities?

To make sure the activities we provide are useful and effective for students, we need to gather information which we use purely for monitoring, research, and evaluation purposes. Under current data protection legislation Hepp/Heppsy are able to process this data as the activities are a task carried out in the public interest. It is also important to prove that what we do is working therefore we have a legitimate interest in collecting evaluation data from learners participating in our programmes. We must:

1. ensure that the activities we offer are appropriate
2. identify the most effective activities and best practice
3. measure the impact of our activities

Collecting individual information

We ask schools to provide information about the students who partake in activities which make up our Multiple Intervention Programme. We collect this information to identify participants for outreach activities, monitor and evaluate, and enable us to track individual young people over time to find out whether they eventually apply to any form of higher education.

*Due to changes on the HEAT database, this information as collected by Hepp and shared with the HeppSY, Sheffield Hallam University and The University of Sheffield partnership will be recorded on HEAT under the label ‘Sex’. Data collected directly from participants as gender will be recorded in the same way.

HEAT
Secure storage of the student data will be done using the Higher Education Access Tracker (HEAT). The HEAT service and database is a national database which is used to record the students attending outreach activities, with the aim of following their potential progression towards higher education. The data protection and storage processes set in place by HEAT ensure that the data is stored securely and not shared without your permission.

For research and evaluation purposes only, data held on HEAT may be shared with educational organisations such as government departments or contracted agencies, including: The Department for Education, UCAS, OfS, organisations contracted by the OfS to undertake the national UCP evaluation (including CFE Research and Ipsos Mori) and the Higher Education Statistics Agency.

The HEAT privacy notice can be found at - https://heat.ac.uk/privacy-notice/

Data sharing and protection
Data will be processed in accordance with the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR) and Data Protection Act 2018, as well as all legislation enacted in the UK in respect of the protection of personal data. As Hepp is a collaborative programme, this information will be shared between the Higher Education Progression Partnership, the Higher Education Progression Partnership South Yorkshire (HeppSY : Uni-Connect programme), Sheffield Hallam University and The University of Sheffield.

The overall data controllers for the Hepp and HeppSY programmes are Sheffield Hallam University and The University of Sheffield, unless otherwise stated in specific agreements. The safety of students is paramount, and we rely on the safeguarding provisions of the Data Protection Act 2018 where concerns around safety and wellbeing are raised. Hepp and its partners will not release individual information to anyone who is unauthorised. More details about this can be found on Sheffield Hallam University and The University of Sheffield websites:

- https://www.shu.ac.uk/outreach-data
- https://www.sheffield.ac.uk/outreach/data

All data will be stored securely, and any reporting will be done so using aggregated data, meaning that individual students will not be identifiable.

Data retention
Your information will not be kept for longer than is necessary and is usually kept in an anonymised format. The length of time for which we keep your data will depend on a number of factors including the importance of the data, the funding requirements, the nature of the evaluation/research, and the requirements of the publisher. Details will be given in the information sheet for each project.”
Questionnaires and Data Collection
As part of our ongoing monitoring and evaluation activities, we will look to collect data from programme participants where appropriate. This may include, but is not restricted to, short surveys before and after taking part in the Multiple Intervention Programme, and follow-up interviews and focus groups. All such modes of data collection are voluntary, and participants will be asked to consent before we collect this data and will have the right to withdraw consent up to the point of publication.

Your rights
You have a number of rights under data protection law. Data protection legislation gives you the following rights:
• The right to be informed
• The right to access
• The right to rectification
• The right to erase
• The right to restrict processing
• The right to data portability
• The right to object
